

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

In an antenna arrangement for an magnetic resonance device and a method for acquiring magnetic resonance signals, at least two adjacent individual antennas are provided and a galvanically contact-free decoupling coil is fashioned and/or arranged such that it inductively couples with both adjacent individual antennas so that the inductive coupling is minimal between the two adjacent individual antennas.

CH1\ 4047458.1